

James & Katie Waddell - Africa

Currently, James & Katie are in France in Language School, they will remain there until next summer where they will return home to visit with family and friends, check on their support status. They then plan to leave in the fall of 2009 for Niger, West Africa to serve there long-term. . Their team's goals include a focus on church planting, and a vision of reaching a large portion of this relatively receptive area of the world. Niger is 98% Muslim, and one of the poorest countries in the world, and the spiritual and physical needs of this country only continue to increase.
